Features and benefits for your organisation

Efficiency

By combining your accounting and tax year end processes, you can complete the two processes consecutively. This avoids the inefficient double handling of information when the two processes are completed months apart, saving both time and money.

Integrity and quality control

The beauty of using purpose built technology is that it enables you to easily make adjustments without affecting the integrity of your data. For example, if you have an audit adjustment this can simply be updated without re-working the entire calculation with the risk of error. And by using technology, this ensures you have an audit trail of adjustments to the underlying data.

Access to technical knowledge

The technical skills associated with completing the annual accounting and tax year end process require specialist skills. By partnering with PwC's Year End Solutions team, we can supplement your team's existing technical knowledge or we can provide all of the technical expertise, leaving your team to focus on your day to day business.
